ASSEMBLY

- Find a clear area large enough for a volleyball court, 29" x 59".
- Remove all items from the box and inspect to ensure all items are included.
- Find both sets of poles - Top Pole and Bottom Pole.
- Place the pole caps on the top and bottom of the pole.
- Connect the poles together by placing the top pole into the bottom pole.
- Find the 4 J-hooks and the 8 locking nuts.
- Screw one nut onto each J-hook equal distance up the shaft making sure the j-hook will still travel the pole exposing enough of the bolt to allow the second nut to go on easily.

- Slide the J-hook through the top hole (Men's playing height) of the top pole securing with the locking nut.
- Turn the pole 180 degrees and slide a second J-hook through the lower hole (Women's playing height) and secure with a locking nut.
- Repeat this step with the second set of poles.

- Lay the net out in the space you will set up the court.
- Lay the poles next to the net and run the top line through the opening of the pole.
- Tie the top rope to the jay hook.
- Tie the next three ropes to the Pole with 5 inches of space between the net and the pole.
- Loop the next rope and connect to the pole using the shock bungee.
- The last rope can be tied or left alone.
- Repeat this on the second pole.

- Take hold of the long guy line stakes and place them in the ground at a 45 degree angle to the pole, not placing too much tension on the lines.
- Repeat this step with the other pole, putting tension on the net.
- Tighten all the tensioners to secure the poles and net.
- Tighten the top line of the net making the top of the net tight.
